Direct Hay Weighted Average Report for week ending 5/28/2021

Volume
This Week	Last Reported ()	Last Year

Please Note: The above volumes (tonnage, acres, and bales) listed on this USDA LPGMN report are for confirmed trades only, it does not include estimated volume (tonnage) for bids or offers to the trade.

Compared to the last report: Hay prices are mostly steady to firm. Rain and severe weather has been the story for all of the regions over the last two weeks. The heaviest amounts fell in the South and East, with reports of 10-12 inches in some areas causing some flooding concerns. The North, Central, West, and Panhandle regions also received rain ranging mostly from 2 to 6 inches. As a result, the US Drought Monitor is now showing that 75 percent of the state is no longer in a drought. This is compared to 47 percent 3 months ago. First indications have shown that new crop prices will be in line with old crop pricing until a larger supply can be established. Pastures and rangelands have benefitted from the recent moisture, but some supplemental feeding is still taking place.

Due to limited sales and price changes this report will be released bi-weekly until more volumes of hay is moving.

 The next report release will be June 11th
