Direct Hay Weighted Average Report for week ending 8/19/2022

Volume
This Week	Last Reported ( )	Last Year

Please Note: The above volumes (tonnage, acres, and bales) listed on this USDA LPGMN report are for confirmed trades only, it does not include estimated volume (tonnage) for bids or offers to the trade.

Compared to the last report: Hay prices remain firm to 10.00 higher in all regions. Spotty rains have been reported across portions of the Panhandle, West, and South the past two weeks. Additionally, heavy rains are forecasted across much of the state over the weekend, which will also create relief in the hotter than average temperatures. Nine major Texas cities reported their hottest July on record, and the entire state had its fifth-driest July on record this year. The state's reservoirs are 20% below average levels. However, only 26 percent of the state is in the exceptional drought category compared to around 75 percent during the last the severe drought in 2011. The rains have slowed some supplemental feeding, but we will need more rain to recover droughted out pastures. As a result, hay demand remains strong in all regions.

***Due to limited sales and price changes this report will be released bi-weekly until more volumes of hay is moving.***

*** The next report release will be September 2nd***
