

Caitlyn Grudzinski

Account Executive & Project Manager
Commodity & Ingredient Hedging

Caitlyn Grudzinski is an account executive and project manager for Commodity & Ingredient Hedging, or CIH in Chicago. Grudzinski serves on CIH's beef margin management team, helping clients in the cattle market manage their price risk.

Prior to joining CIH, Grudzinski worked at Goldman Sachs in their risk department with experience in currencies and credit. Originally from Texas, she earned an MBA with honors from the University of Chicago, Booth School of Business. At Wesleyan University she earned a bachelor's in economics and pitched for their DIII softball program. She also holds a Series 3 National Commodities Futures Examination License.