

Dustin Valusek

Vice President

National Finance Credit Corporation of Texas

Dustin Valusek is in his 10th year working for National Finance Credit Corporation of Texas and serves as Vice President. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University (Animal Science, 2011) and the TCU Ranch Management Program (2015).

Valusek brings a unique perspective as moderator of the panel with direct experience treating and monitoring New World screwworm during his three-year time span in Brazil, where he studied Animal Science at the University of São Paulo and worked for the Meirelles family that ran 10,000 cows, 20,000 stockers, and finished cattle in their own feedlot.

He aims to bridge the generational gap in awareness of screwworm by sharing with Texas ranchers of all ages the devastating impact this parasite has on production agriculture.
